THE KILLING OF DURYEA.

THE OLD PARTNERS' DEATH GRAP-PLE UNDER THE GASLIGHT.

The Important Testimony of a Witness who Saw the Death Blow Struck-An Antopsy Showing the Desperation with which the

The investigation in the case of Nicholas W. Duryea, who was killed by John E. Simmons in front of 65 Liberty street, was resumed yester-day in Bellevue Hospital by Corner Keenan. The prisoner reclined on a chair, supported by pillows and cushlons, and was seemingly the most disinterested person in the room. Col. Fellows, his counsel, was prepared with a stenographer, and suggested several questions which were asked by the Coroner. The witnesses, Heaton and Stryker, who had been sent to the House of Detention, were taken into court by first day of the inquest, took the stand and gave the following additional testimony:

O-How far were you standing from Simmons and Duryea when the dimentity began? A.—I was standing about four yards from them when they first clinched. Q.—What position did you occupy at the time? A.—Simmons's back was turned toward me and I was facing Duryes.
Q.—On what part of the sidewalk were the men at the time? A.—They were close to the gutter.
Q.—When they were disputing they stood about one foot apart.

A.—When they were disputing they stood about one foot apart.

Q.—Will you state what motion was first made by sither party? A.—Duryes grabbed Simmons by the throat and struck him, but I cannot say where the blow fell. I think it was on the neck.

Q.—In your testimony on Wednesday, you said that when they clinched Druyea threw Simmons and fell on top of him. Then you said that Simmons got the best of Duryea. Will you tell the jury what you'meant when you said that Simmons got the best of it? A.—I meant hat there was a hard struggle for the mastery. Then Bimmons turned Duryea off of him, and then was on the top of him.

Binmons turned Duryea on or him, and then was on the top of him.

Q.—Did he give him a sudden turn or did he gradually turn him over? A.—I said before it was a hard struggle, and they both laid side by side for a seconi or two before Duryea was finally turned over.

Q.—When you drst saw Duryea strike Simmons what was the precise position of the men? A.—Simmons was on top of Duryea, and the legs of both men were in the sutter. he gutter.

Was there sufficient light for you to positively inguish what was going on? A.—There was no light the street lamp, and that was not burning very thir. The night was nasty and sloppy.

AFTER THE STRUGGLE. Charles Anderson of 211 East Fiftieth street, a clerk in the registry department of the General Post Office, was the next witness. He gave his testimenty truthfully and intelligently. Q.—Will you state what you know about the case? A.—I left the Post Office about 7 colock on the evening of the killing to go up Nassau street. As I turned into Nassau street i heard the cry of "Police! Police!" I, with several others, ran in the direction whence the cries proceeded.

Nasau street I heard the cry of "Police! Police!" I, with several others, ran in the direction whence the cries proceeded.

Q.—When you got there what did you see? A.—When I got opposite to Sutherland's restaurant I saw two men down on the sidewalk, one kneeling over or on top of the other. I stepped up close to them to see what was the matter, whereupon one of them, whom I now recognize as the prisoner, was in the act of rising to his feet. As he raised himself he said, "Now I have got the best of you." Simmons then tried to step back, and as he did so he fell backward in the street. As he fell he exclaimed: "I have broken my leg." Some persons then assisted him to Sutherland's.

Q.—Before simmons got off of Duryea did you see a movement by either party? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Did you see any blows or stabs given? A.—No, oir. Neither did I see a weepon in anybody's hand. There might have been, but I was excited, and did not notice any. I went into Sutherland's with the police, and saw Simmons arrested. Stryker and Simmons were whispering to each other in the restaurant, but what they said was inaudible to me. I think Stryker said, in answer to an inquiry by some one, that two men were going down Laberty street and that some one had tried to root them. I think that Stryker is the man who said this, because he was very officious on the occasion. Simmons thanked the officers for allowing I tim to rest his leg.

Q. (by a juror)—Did Simmons say, "I have broken my

Was there sufficient light for you to see all that spired? A.—It was a dark and stormy night, but each as light enough for any one to see who was as as a was. THE STABBING.

some one shout. 'Police, police, and murder!' several simes. Then I went down starts, and saw two men lying on the sidewalk, one on top of the other. I had never seen either of them before that night. Just as I got there the men underneath said 'Let me up, you,' and he seemed to be struggling to get up, but he could only move his head backward and forward and kink. The usa on top then, partially, raised nimself, and holding the other man with his left hand, struck him with his right hand some place about the head, as I thought. Then I saw the arms of the man who was underneath fall by his side, and his head drooped over to one side. The top man then raised himself, and looked at the other for a second or two. The lower man never moved. Then the to laise him raises him left had been a side of the other for a second or two. The lower man never hower, and had the other for a second or two. The lower man never hower, and had the other for a second or two. The lower man never hower, it is the some place about the body. The legs of the underneath man gave a few quivers. Then the men on top got up, and as he did so he staggered and fell on his back in the gutter. Then he turned over on his side, and called out "Bill, Bill," three or four times. A man then helped him to Sutherland's. I then returned to my work. The prisoner Simmons I recognize as the man who did the killing, and who was on top of buryea.

A FRIGHTFUL SPECTACLE.

The following is Dr. Wooster Beech's report of the autopsy made by him on Duryea's body:
I have made a post-mortem examination of the body of deceased. It was of good muscular development and fairly nourished. The following wounds and injuries were observed: Over the anterior portion of left along the parietal bone was an incised wound two lackes long; extending directly backward from the lobe of the left ear, a wound two and one-half inches long; over left molar bone, slight cut half an inch in length over left magic of lower jaw, similar cut; over the hiddle of the neck; over anterior border of sterno cleido mastoli muscle of left side, a cut one inch in length; or chin and on anterior portion of neck were two superficial cuts; over the large of left and two slight cuts; on inside part of left thumb cut; also one on anterior superior poinous process of the tilium as wound one inch long. There was an oblique communuted fracture of right tibls. Several clots of blood were in the lower part of the abdomen.

Opening the body, the wound in the groin was found to extende on-piciely through the walls of the abdomen and enter the perionesi cavity. The intestines were not injured. The wound over the sterno cleido mastold muscle extended directly inward, and was found to extended directly inward, and was found to he feel and the left ear extended directly inward, and was found to he feel and the left ear extended directly inward to the occipital bone, which hone was fractured, a small plece of it being shipped off, leaving an opening at the place into the tranum cavity. The stomech contained about a quart of fluid, a portion of it blood. There was sone pleurite of the care of the carotid artery.

The First Fight of the New Supervisors-Th Lie Baudied-Charges of Corruption-The New Statue of Mr. Tweed. At a meeting of the Supervisors yesterday, Alderman Vance in the chair, Mr. Van ber of a 'Ring.' I demand sasisfaction. When a gentleman of this body publishes what he knowingly knows to be false, I think it about time that something be done. The act is an outrage upon me. My people and family were resitients of this city for more than one hundred years, and a no distant relative was a member of the Board of Aldermen less than one hun-of the Board of Aldermen less than one hundred years ago. The gentleman who charges me as being a member of a Ring was paid hundreds of thousands of dollars by a ring more despicable than has ever existed. He has written a certain letter to William M. Tweed, commending him for his action. And this mandares to participate in the debates of this board, leaves this chamber for his desk to pen what he knows to be false. I say, unhesitatingly, that he is guilty of an impertinence."

Mr. Ottendorfer (rising suddenly)—I wish to ask the gentleman if it is from his own knowledge, or from heresay, that he alleges me guilty of accepting money from the "Tammany Ring."

Mr. Van Schaick—I have received my information from competent authority. I will further state that the gentleman has three lamps in front of his premises, the expenses for lighting them is defrayed by the city.

Mr. Ottendorfer—You are falsely informed. I have repeatedly requested the proper authorities to remove them. Nothing has as yet been done toward their removal. Mr. Van Schaick alleges me guilty of criticizing the deliberations of this body in my paper. I have a right to publish what I please and shall not be prevented. If the article to which the gentleman has reference is distasteful to him, he has the courts where he may make known his wrongs. He can sue me for libel. I have always expressed my ideas without fear or favor in the past, and I shall do so in the future, come what may.

Mr. Van Schaick—But when the gentleman mentions me as a member of a lling, he says what he knows to be offensive to me. This is not the only instance to which I allude as having been blackmalled; he has taken occasion time and time again to ruin my character. When the gentleman says he has never had any connection with Tweed he is guilty of a false-hood. I have in my hand (producing a circular a circular which was issued by the Tweed Testimonial Association for erecting a statue for William M. Tweed, to which is attached the name of Oswald Ottendorfer. The gentleman should be creful in his criticisms, not tied down, but be kept within the bounds of decency.

Mr. Ottendorfer—When a gentleman stands in this chamber for the purpose of making a speech he should know whereof he speaks. I have frequently protested against having my name used to the circular which the gentleman has read. I have never seen it. I have never signed a document which had for its object the erection of a statue for William M. Tweed. I will write what I please and think proper without dication from any member of this body.

Mr. Van Schaick—I knew the gentleman would disavow the circular. I do not want newspaper controversy. If the gentleman deaires economy and efficient management of the county government I will meet him.

Mr. Ottendorfer—The gentleman cannot read German. I published in my paper, more than a year ago, a card prohibiting the use of may name to the circular.

A motion was being made. The motion at length prevailed—9 to 6.

Alderman Ottendorfer went to Alderman Van Schaick's seat, and said that he had been insulted, and that he lied. Alderman Koch stepped forward, and gesticulating wildly said to Mr. Ottendorfer, "All that you have said only shows that you are an ignorant man. Your debates at our meetings cl

THE HUNTINGTON CRIME.

Banks, Prime, and Sammis Handed Over

Justice Pratt of the Supreme Court gave his decision yesterday in the case of George B. Banks, Claudius B. Prime, and Royal Sammis accused of tarring and feathering Charles G. Kelsey. He dismissed the writs of habeas corpus and certiorari and remanded the prisoners to the custody of the officers. Mr. Henry C. Platt, the custody of the officers. Mr. Henry C. Platt, of counsel for the prosecution and Mr. Stanbrough for the defence were in court when the decision was announced. The following is the full text of Judge Pratt's order:

The People agt. Banks et al., Habeas Corpus and Certiorar.—The only question to be determined in this proceeding is whether the defendants are entitled to be discharged upon a writ of habeas corpus, and is a concurrent remedy with that of habeas corpus, and is a substitute for the latter where the personal attendance of the prisoner is not required. It is also occasionally issued simultaneously with the writ of habeas corpus to obtain a more definite and full return of the cause of imprisonment or detention of a party.

It is renceded, on the part of the prisoners, that the imprisonment is under actual process, valid upon its face, and that it was issued by a magistrate having jurisdiction.

It is not controverted that the finding of the Justice

Jury.

This last finding the relators claim is not supported by the evidence, and hence they should be discharged. The practice is now well settled that the merits of a trial before a committing magnistrate will not be examined upon a return to a writ of hisbest corpus, when there is no suggestion that he has taken the law or exceeded his jurisdiction. The writ of hisbest corpus is not given for an appeal and review, but simply to try the issue whether the party is lilegally deprived of his is not given for an appeal and review, but simply to try the issue whether the party is lilegally deprived of his is not given for an appeal and review, but simply to try the issue whether the party is lilegally deprived of his is not commitment regular and valid upon its face, and regularly issued and served in the course of a judicial proceeding.

STRE gurisdiction of the Justice who acted in this matter is unquestioned. Whether he adhered with technical accuracy to the rules of evidence, or discarded some and gave undue credence to other testimony, are questions not open to review in this matter. I am not called upon to define what are the exact powers of the supreme Court at common law, or a Justice of the same unner our statute to give relief against unjust imprisonment, as this record shows nothing that would justify an interference on my part, assuming, my power mass, after it has remained long enough in the vessel, is in the tender and juley condition of the interior of a joint of meat baked in the ordinary way.

A PERFECT AND ECONOMICAL COOKER. THE

Everything cooked in it is more easily digostible than when cooked in the ordinary way. Burning, scorching, over-cooking, and smokhal impossible. The dinner may be kept hot two hours without spoiling.

This domestic utensil is destined to work a complete revolution in kitchen economy. It makes every housewife independent of bad cooks. There is no such thing as spoiling food in its use. The Cooker has simply to be charged, and, like a wound-up clock, it runs of itself. The greenest of girls can operate it right off, and the meats, poultry, fish, puddings and vegetables are cooked superbly.

Annexed is a sectional view of the apparatus.
This Cooker is a complete culinary establishment in itself. It is made of tin plate with copper bottom, and can be used on any range, cooking stove, grate fire, open wood fire, or over a grab burner.

It saves the time, labor, and discomforts attending the ordinary process. It saves three ounces to the pound of meats. It saves there ounces to the pound of meats. It saves fuel, requiring only a heat sufficient to boil water. The most delicate sense of smell cannot detect in the house the slightest suggestion of cookery. The price of the article, which is comparatively trifling, will be saved in one month's use.

The meat is cooked without the access of air, water, or steam. The juices and flavor are all preserved. So far as the meat is concerned, IT IS NOT ASTEAMER, but a steaming chamber is added for vegetables, puddings, &c., as shown by the cut.

The principle of the thing is that a tightly-closed vessel containing the meat to be cooked is surrounded by steam, except at its bottom, which rests in boiling water, and at a small portion of the upper part of its sides, which is exposed to the air. The meat rests on a faise bottom, which prevents its coming in contact with the water at 212 degrees. The exposure of the portion of the sides that is not steamjacketed causes a loss of heat that reduces the temperature of the closed vessel to about 210 degrees, or has demonstrated, this is the best cooking heat, roundering even tough meat tender and palatable. The effect may be illustrated by saying that the whole as this admirable utensil is called, is the invention of an officer in the English navy. It is in use in the British army and navy, in the army of the United States, and is thousands of families in this country, where it gives the very highest satisfaction, as the foregoing testimonials indicate.

Send for pamphlet, embracing testimonials from Bishop Clark of Rhode Island; Major-Gen. M. C. Meigs, Quartermaster-General U. S. Army, Washington, D. C.; and others, with full description, recipes for cooking, prices, &c.
